Beekeeping.

Beekeeping, or apiculture (from the Latin apis, meaning "bee"), is one of the oldest forms of food production known in human culture, with evidence of domestic beekeeping appearing in artwork produced as early as 3000 BCE in ancient Egypt. Over centuries of practice and refinement, beekeeping has become a modern hobby and occupation, with thousands of practitioners worldwide raising bees in rural, suburban, and even urban environments to harvest honey, honeycomb, royal jelly, and other products....
